E. S. JOHNSON ELECTED MAYOR OF GRIMSBY BY ACCLAMATION

H. Lindensmith Elected to Water Commission — Board of Education Members Unopposed — Dr. Farrell And W. McPherson Contesting The Reevship — Ten In Field For Council.

Nominations in Grimsby town passed off very quietly on Monday night. A large number of citizens were in attendance at the council chambers and heard a very clear cut statement of municipal matters from Mayor Robert H. Lewis, Reeve E. S. Johnson and the councillors.

That the citizens are taking a greater interest in town affairs was evidenced by the fact that 27 nominations were handed to Clerk Bourne, for the various offices to be filled.

When declarations of qualification had been filed on Tuesday night Edric S. Johnson was declared elected Mayor for 1938 by acclamation. H. Lindensmith was elected to fill the vacant seat on the Water Commission and the four old members of the Board of Education were returned unopposed, they being Mrs. Ada Bromley, T. L. Dymond, Wm. Hewson and Earl J. Marsh.

In connection with the election of Mr. Johnson as Mayor, it is to be noted that he is the first man in Grimsby to have that office, who has also been Reeve and whose father before him had been Reeve.

Mayor Lewis reviewed the council activities for the past year and explained the situation as regards the sewage disposal plant. He stated that members of the council and Board of Health had done all in their power to have the plant fixed up, but had not been able until very late in the year in securing the advice and help from the Provincial Board of Health that they needed, but that the matter was now being taken care of and it was hoped that next year there would be no cause for complaints from the citizens in the north end of the town.

Reeve Johnson also dealt with the disposal plant matter and took up very comprehensively county matters. Owing to the absence of Dr. Farrell, through illness, councillor Lothian gave a review of the finances for the year.

Councillor Laing was unable to attend the meeting owing to illness.

Reeve Johnson in his speech brought up the question of certain town employees who had been making "vile and foul" remarks about the council members and stated that if he were elected as mayor he would have those remarks investigated and the parties making them suspended.

Harland R. Dickson, speaking on behalf of the Board of Education, gave a detailed account of the board's work for the year and showed that the schools had been maintained at a high standard at less cost to the ratepayers than had been the case in previous years.

Father Time's hour glass silently marks off the seconds, bringing closer the turn of a year, speeding to us that rollicking little New Year who will be known as 1938. What the youngster will bring to us no man can say. We can but await his arrival with high hopes and optimistic plans, confident that we are able to do the best with whatever material 1938 does supply us.

HELENNE BOYD WINS FIRST IN SHOPPING CLUB CONTEST

GIVEN ACCLAMATION

GEORGE W. CRITTENDEN returned as Deputy Reeve of North Grimsby for another year.

Prizes Awarded For Decorations

Current And Betzner Win Window Contest in The Town — Mrs. Hamilton Fleming Gets First Prize in Township.

In the Christmas decoration contest sponsored by the Grimsby Business Men's Association, the three specially appointed judges, after much deliberation, finally awarded the first prize for the best decorated store window to Current and Betzner. T. A. Flett was awarded second prize and Robert C. Bourne received honorable mention.

In the contest for the best decorated house, Stanley Globe, Nelles Boulevard, was awarded first prize, C. D. Milyard, St. Andrew's Avenue won second prize and Ervin Phelps, St. Andrew's Avenue, received honorable mention.

The judges were Mr. Thomson, John H. Forman

In the township, the contest sponsored by a private citizen and endorsed by North Grimsby council, created much interest. The judges in this case had considerable more territory to cover and it was only after a lot of effort that they finally awarded first prize to Mrs. Hamilton Fleming. R. A. Moll won second prize and T. J. Mantle third prize.

All contestants in both the town and township deserve a lot of credit for their work and efforts, in trying to brighten up the town and district at the yuletide season, and it is to be hoped that next year there will be a still larger entry list than this year.

Has Served The Public 50 Years

Mayor Robert H. Lewis First Elected to Council in Barton Township When But a Lad 22 Years Old.

When Mayor Robert H. Lewis stepped down from the town council, he was the man responsible for the recent provincial audit of the township books, occupied most of the time of the meeting.

Mr. Thos. Phillips, who stated that he was the man responsible for the recent provincial audit of the township books, occupied most of the time of the meeting.

He criticized the council for having written off the sum of $3,433 on suspense account. As this had been done on the advice of the government auditors, councillors took the stand that it was the correct thing to do. Mr. Phillips believed that all the items in this account should have been publicized and questioned the right of the council to "write off" this amount.

Mr. Phillips was subjected to a considerable amount of heckling

when he tried to read the itemized statement of this account, as he also was, when he took up the question of interest charges on county rate covering a period of over 15 years. He claimed that at present the township owed the county $3,283.68 interest on their 1934 county rate. Clerk Allan took exception to this statement and claimed that the township did not owe the account, although the county treasurer claimed that they did. During 1936, council had collected $2,621.77, stated Mr. Phillips, in interest charges from tax arrears.

This argument was greeted by some boos and the opinion of the meeting seemed to be that a rate-

payer in arrears on his taxes

should pay interest.

Mr. Phillips claimed that the government auditor had told counsel to "edge on" the players when a tense moment appears during an exciting game, certain fans would be well advised to restrain their feelings to some extent.

The action of these fans, no doubt, resulted in some of the local boys losing their heads at Tuesday night's hockey exhibition.

Ella Beamer And Mary Liddle Next in Order—Thirty Cash Prizes Including Specials Given Out—Three Hundred And Fifty New Subscribers.

A very successful campaign concluded on Monday night when the final standing was announced in the Grimsby Shopping Club competition. The total figures were checked and verified on the adding machine at the Canadian Bank of Commerce during the afternoon. Five contestants finished with over one million votes.

Merchants Well Pleased

That hundreds, yes thousands of dollars, were spent in local stores, which might otherwise have found their way to the city, was the opinion expressed by several of the merchants who co-operated in the campaign. Many new customers were attracted to club stores, and some merchants collected a number of back accounts and even were paid in advance for merchandise, which gives some idea of the interest created by this contest, especially the last two weeks.

Hundreds of New Subscribers

The popularity of The Grimsby Independent now appears to have returned, judging from the fact that three hundred and fifty new subscribers were secured during this campaign. Contestants report that people were willing and glad to subscribe in response to their solicitations. We welcome these new readers to our list, and feel satisfied they will find interest in every page of the Independent.

Thank You, One And All

We wish to extend our thanks to both contestants and merchants who helped to make the campaign a real success, and the contestants also wish to thank all those who helped them in any way to win their prizes.

Following are the final results:

1—Helene Boyd	1,494.075

Police Jottings

Provincial Constable Robbie reports that some time during the weekend thieves visited the home of Phillip Tregunno, Main street east, and stole a decorated Christmas tree from the front lawn. The family were away from home for the holiday and it is not definitely known just when the tree disappeared. Thieves also visited the home of the Provincial Constable on Saturday night and stole some of the colored electric light bulbs from a decorated tree on his lawn.

Chief DeMille reports that this Christmas weekend was the quietest in local police circles, in eight years. Not one arrest was made and no transients were seeking lodgings. The local police moreover did not receive one call or complaints of any kind.

Our Weekly "Knock"

Always ready and apparently waiting for a chance to "edge on" the players when a tense moment appears during an exciting game, certain fans would be well advised to restrain their feelings to some extent.

The action of these fans, no doubt, resulted in some of the local boys losing their heads at Tuesday night's hockey exhibition.

Our Weekly "Boost"

The support tendered the sponsors of juvenile and midget hockey teams in Grimsby this winter, was very encouraging, as evidenced by the large attendance at the arena on Tuesday night.

And the program supplied by all those taking part in the evening's attraction, left no doubt as to the success of the entertainment provided.

Funeral services were conducted from his late residence on Tuesday afternoon. Rev. R. B. Ferris of Trinity United Church, officiating, assisted by Rev. Robert Darke of Port Rowan and Rev. W. N. Chantler of Toronto. Interment taking place in Queen's Lawn cemetery. The pallbearers were W. W. Ferris, David Allan, J. H. Gibson, T. E. Mannell, Albert Marsh and J. H. Culp.

During 1936, council had collected $2,621.77, stated Mr. Phillips, in interest charges from tax arrears.

This argument was greeted by some boos and the opinion of the meeting seemed to be that a rate-

payer in arrears on his taxes

should pay interest.

On Monday next the citizens of Grimsby will be given an opportunity to say who shall be their representatives around the council board for 1938.

As citizens of this Dominion we are given a franchise by which we may pick and choose who shall be our municipal representatives. If we do not use this franchise then we have no reasonable excuse for finding fault with the work of the council members. Those members are put in office by the vote of the people and any man or woman who does not exercise the right to vote must remain satisfied even if the work of the council does not measure up to standard.

Next Monday is the time for the people to express their approval or disapproval of the members of last year's council who are again in the field and to pick and choose their selection from the new candidates. If they do not go to the polls and do this, then they should have nothing to say regarding the personnel of the new council. Monday is the time to say who should or who should not handle the town affairs.

There is an election for reeve, and two men with council experience are seeking office. Which do you prefer to be elected?

Ten candidates are running for six seats on the council. Most of them have had previous experience, while the public generally know the qualifications of the others. The voters have the say, not those who remain away from the polls.

RETURNING CHRISTMAS GOODS

After the Christmas rush, the next thing is to rush to exchange Christmas presents and return goods that fail to please the purchaser or the recipient of the gift. The merchants go the limit to accommodate people. Still many demands are made that go beyond reason.

If people are going to return goods, they should do so within a short time after the goods are purchased. If they wait longer, the stock from which the merchandise was taken may be so broken up that it has to be sold at a loss. If they return anything, it should be in perfect condition.

SOCIAL LIFE NEEDED

The growth and development of a town depends a good deal on whether people enjoy their life in that community. If they have a good time, if they have made warm friends, if there are activities going on that they like, it takes a big pull to induce them to go elsewhere.

If there is a lack of social life and other enjoyments, people become restless and discontented. This is specially true of the women. You can't blame them. After they have toiled many hours in their kitchens, they want pleasant social life. Hence it is essential to town progress, that plenty of social life be provided, with warm welcomes to newcomers. Give people a good time, and they hate to move elsewhere.

THE WORLD IN 1937

Did the world move backward or forward in the year 1937? We always think of the world as making progress, as gradually climbing up the hill of civilization and social advance. Yet there are times when it seems to have slipped backward.

Among the notable events of 1937 have been the wars in China and Spain. These wars seem like those occasions when the human race has slipped backward. The world thought a few years ago that it had evolved plans and systems that would stop war. It had a League of Nations formed for that purpose, and a series of treaties by which war was made contrary to the law of nations. It was hoped that by such protections, any nation that contemplated war would be deterred by the condemnation it would receive at the bar of human justice, and the fear that the other nations would rise in indignation to put down such lawbreakers.

These and other provisions have proved futile. The passions of men and nations are like a mighty flood. When they start roaring and raging, systems of law and leagues and courts go down like the works of man when shaken by the great calamities of nature.

Yet who shall say the world made no progress in 1937? The great amounts of money poured out for sufferers showed that human sympathy is keener than ever before. A power like that, gradually gaining possession of the human heart, may be greater than any hatred that causes wars.

THE GOOD OLD HOME TOWN

People sometimes become discontented in their home towns, and think these places are too dull, and they would like to go to some place where there is more going on.

If work or business forces them for a time to leave the community with which they are familiar, they are usually mighty glad to come back. The big city may be more exciting, but all those strange and indifferent faces convey no thought of friendship. When such people return to the old home town, they are glad to get back. The handclasp of this and that friend, the cordial welcome home, the regret people express because these absent ones stayed away too long, are better than the thrills and excitements of the strange city.

NEW YEAR THOUGHTS

If hilarious parties, if shouting and yelling and horn blowing, and trick playing are a true measure of human feeling, then the modern world seems to reach about its zenith of happiness as the solemn stroke of 12 on December 31 tells us that one more year has passed into history.

Why does the mere passing of time across a purely artificial line of division make people all at once feel such high exhilaration? They will have the same old difficulties to face.

The mystery of the future helps create this illusion of happiness. The feeling exists that behind the veil of those clouded days ahead, some turn of good fortune is waiting. It does people good to have that hope in the future.

Opportunities are waiting for each one of us in 1938, if we are quick to grasp them. But let us not get the idea that Lady Luck is going to favor us in 1938 any more than she did in 1937. If we have new successes in 1938, it will be because we have worked for them and deserved them.

The good resolution habit was once one of the principal ways of celebrating New Year. It is laughed at in this skeptical age, which predicts that all the resolutions will be forgotten in a fortnight. It often works that way, but not always. Countless lives have turned from the downward path to the uphill climb, when some change or startling event showed them they were headed wrong. New Year's is a perfectly good time to undergo that experience. Let us all feel that the New Year will bring us about what we deserve, and that those who give service and affection and kindness will get their reward.

Editorial Notes

The motorists hate to stop. Still they usually do so when they run into a tree.

The kids haven't all their Christmas toys smashed yet, though they are making progress on that objective.

The thought at Christmas time is said to turn to others. In many cases the thought about others, is what those others are going to give us.

When you spend money out of town you throw away a portion of the increased home town prosperity that is created by money spent at home.

If anybody hollers too loud New Year's eve, might be a good idea to show him a lot of the January 1 bills he will shortly be asked to pay.

If Junior hasn't shown the world that he is a budding music genius since he got his new Christmas drum and tin horn, it isn't any fault of his.

"All things come to him who waits." In the Christmas rush some say all things are more likely to come to those having the sharpest elbows and the heaviest feet.

Husbands should be careful to remember their wives' birthdays, wedding anniversaries, etc. If they can remember them as well as they do when any money is coming due, everything will be all right.

WHAT ANSWERS WOULD YOU GIVE?

The following impressions of what an Unemployment Census Blank should include was sent us this week:

(1) Print full name as if sober. (Do you live on a farm, in a trailer, in a love nest or up in a tree?)

(2) Are you: (a) Totally bored and willing to work? (b) At ease as a public servant? (c) Promised a political job?

(3) Do you find it too much work to fill this out?

(4) Honest-to-goodness age. Penalty for perjury ten years.

(5) Color or race? Animal, vegetable or mineral?

(6) Wingspread? Specific gravity? Tickleness? Belief in fairies? Pounds to the square inch?

(7) How many hours did you sleep last night? But how do you know if you were asleep?

(8) How many months did you work in the last twelve months you worked? All right, all right, skip it.

(9) What is your occupation when you really work? (Examples—Sparring partner, kiss-and-tell, town character, tea leaf reader, wishbone breaker, etc.)

(10) Kind of business or industry in which you are doing what might laughingly be called work? (Examples—Rag basket, haunted house, merry-go-round, plumbing supply house, marionette theatre, etc.)

(11) How many of your husband's or wife's people live in the same house with you—and how long are you going to stand for it?

(12) How many persons are mainly dependent on you for loans till payday, imitations of livestock, dates?

(13) What's on your mind? What faults have you? How do you manage to get by? What's the deuce do you think you are? You and who else? So you won't talk, eh?

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

BE LOYAL TO YOUR HOME TOWN

(Reproduced from the Smithville Review)

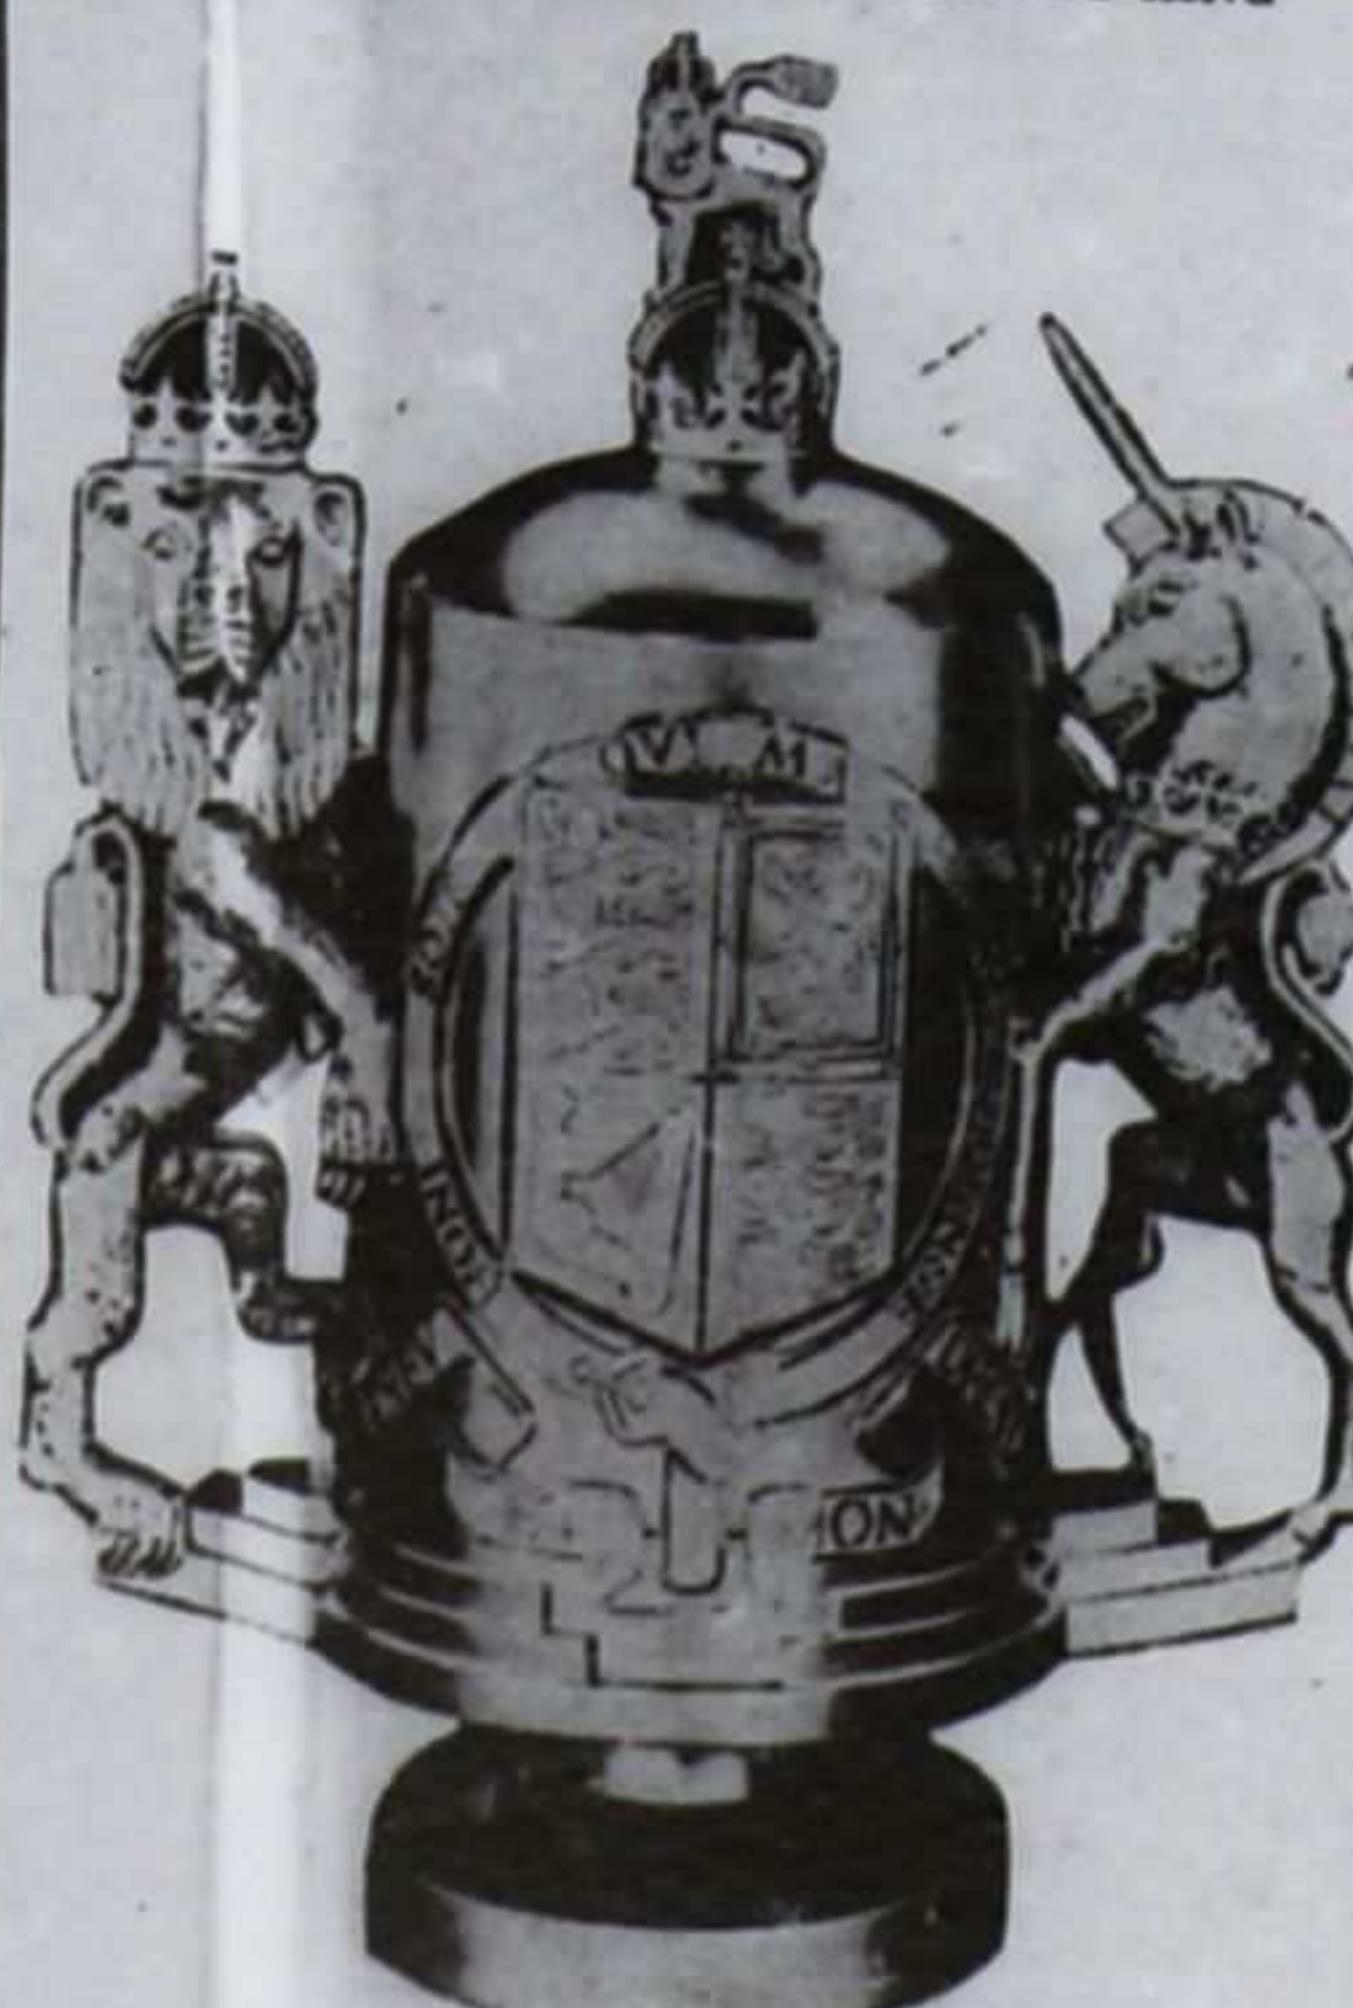

On Monday afternoon we were approached by a local church worker to ask for free publicity for a church that has received same for over 21 years. We have given this free publicity to all churches for that period of time, Protestant, Roman Catholic, the Salvation Army, Free Methodist and all sects or religion, street preachers and sundry.

Recently we clamped down on certain phases of this free publicity, and we had a legitimate reason for doing so. The reason was for the common good of all citizens and the town in particular. We have no quarrel with this certain church or any church or any branch of work with any of the churches. However we do object to giving free publicity for the calling of meetings and then be side-tracked for the benefit of the city daily for the personal gain of local citizens who apparently do not care a hoot for the town or its future welfare. The country weekly cannot hope to compete with the large city daily and we do not expect to put the daily out of business, but the city daily can do this very thing to the country weekly.

The local weekly is depended upon to announce all church notices, business meetings, school entertainments, etc., free of charge, and the workers then right-about-face and encourage the sending of reports of such meetings to the city papers and expect to have the local publisher give the same report a week later. This style of doing business is for personal gain, and the town is not given a thought as to the future, and the weekly paper is given a decided rap.

Does the city daily copy articles from a country weekly a week late? Well, decided not. We would not expect them to do so. The city daily has its field. The live weekly has its field, too. But we do not hand out favors to local institutions free of charge and then smile at such slaps in the face as given to us by those for whom we extend such favors. If we are given a fair deal by our fellow citizens, regardless of denomination or creed, we are here to serve you and will continue to do so. There is a bone of contention in many country printing offices for a long, long time, and the citizens who encourage this very thing is no friend of the town, its citizens or the weekly paper that strives to serve the community in which it exists. Please do not ask for favors and then try to repay with a knock against our own town.

Your home town paper and all home town institutions, schools, churches, societies, etc., should come first in your thoughts and actions, your patronage is needed at home, and in doing this you are boosting for your own interests, no matter what line of business or vocation you may follow. Be loyal to your town while you are a citizen of it, if only for an indefinite period of years, and if at the end of that time you feel that duty calls elsewhere, be loyal to the town of your choice. Remember this, that other citizens are property owners and expect to dwell in the town indefinitely. In the meantime they are your support and in return they expect you to support them, to assist in every good work for the betterment of the community. Your loyalty is your living, it is your fellow citizens' living and it is for the general good of the community in which we all dwell. Loyalty to your town will bring prosperity to every citizen with in its borders.

NEW CROWN JEWEL ACCEPTED BY KING

The work of Frank Dobson, well known English sculptor, and done by Captain W. Llewellyn Amos, the "Cup of Majesty," shown ABOVE, has been accepted by King George, according to reports from London. The cup, the obverse side of which is shown, will be added to the crown jewels, reportedly the most valuable in the world.

Away Back When

By FRANK FAIRBORN Jr.

WHAT has become of the comfortable armchairs which used to stand invitingly on the sidewalk in front of most country stores and hotels? asks the Fort Frances Times and then continues to editorially answer its own question. Mostly they have disappeared in the tempo of the motor age, but the felicity and fellowship for which they stood in the horse-and-buggy days are not forgotten. Tilted back against the wall in one of those rush-bottomed, broad-armed chairs, a man or boy could rest in the shade and watch the world go by. The custom was conducive to a serene outlook, to unhurried talk, to the spinning of yarns, and to discussion of 'most anything from village news to politics and the state of the nation.

If talk tapered down to the weather as the only topic, or if you lounged alone awhile in one of the capacious chairs, you could always whittle. And when of a lazy summer afternoon even that was too much exertion, you could pull your straw hat down over your eyes to keep the flies away and just doze until someone or something came along to waken you, and your tilted chair came down on all four legs with a thud that brought you back to consciousness and conversation.

City drummers were as fond of the sidewalk chairs as country folks, and after calling on their customers relaxed an hour or two before the evening train. They brought the news of the outside world and broadened the range of conversation in Ruralia. You could usually tell them from the country joyers of leisure by their better clothes. But they were a democratic lot and always ready to talk with villager or farmer, or even barefoot boys who hovered around the group and were sure to be on hand when Jim Brown, the clerk, came out late in the afternoon to hose the sidewalk—and boys' bare feet.

The decline of the amenity for which these chairs of leisure stood is appropriately lamented by the Chapel Hill (N.C.) Weekly: "The Main Street of our own village has for too long a time been bereft of these comforts that keep friendship alive and strong and make life in general more leisurely and agreeable."

Alas, if a chair or two stood outside the store today it would soon be deep in the dust of passing automobiles. Yet the Chapel Hill philosopher is right: Something besides the chairs went out with them. If they could bring back a measure of serene reflection and friendly leisure, their return would perhaps be hailed by the present chair might be a fitting concomitant of the new leisure.

Twilight means little to a bustling city save splashing about in tubs, guzzling cocktails, telephoning madly and lining up for the evening. But in the sleepy small town twilight is an interlude of exquisite ecstasy. There is front porch relaxation, the sprinkling of lawns, the chime of church bells, doves at the fountain, the lowing cows lumbering from pasture, the obligato of crickets, the spark of fireflies through the night-dark foliage, and always that lush and dew inspired waltz of honeysuckle. It's a calm the city dweller cannot achieve. A chance to snuggle closer and with understanding to the heart of things. It is ever amusing when city folk sigh over the monotony of village life. They do not know that sleepy plenitude that comes to the village when the sun dips and day trembles with delicious languor into the fathoms of cool, long shadows.

"DO YOU REMEMBER 'WAY BACK WHEN'?"

Do you remember 'way back when—
Say thirty, forty years—
You never saw your sweetheart's legs,
But judged her by her ears?
The kids were washed each Saturday night,
Their daddy cut their hair,
Their suits were made from their uncle's pants,
And they wore no underwear.
The women padded but did not paint,
Nor smoke, nor drink, nor vote;
The men wore bootees and little stiff hats,
And whiskers like a goat.
Nor a soul had appendicitis,
Nor thought of buying monkey glands;
The butcher gave his liver away,
But charged you for his ham.
You never had a bank account,
Your beer showed 6 per cent,
The hired girl got two bucks a week,
And twelve bones paid the rent.
You could stand each night when the work was o'er
With one foot on the rail,
And your hip supported not a thing
Exceptin' your own shirt tail.

SPORTLAND SPOTLIGHT

IF IT'S A BOUQUET OR A BRICKBAT THAT'S COMING TO YOU — YOU'LL GET IT

By J. ORLON "BONES" LIVINGSTON, Independent Sportologist

TOO MANY From one end of the district to the other, the cry is going up in fandom, "Too Many Penalties". Keyrect. Where does the trouble lay? Why should there be three games in succession in this group with 16-18-20 penalties and in three different rinks and all different teams? Only one reason. Not enough referee control.

I'm not picking on the referees, for I have finally come to the conclusion that they are efficient enough, but they are really being asked to do the impossible. I'm now firmly convinced, that under the present pro. code of rules, that it is impossible for one man to handle a game in proper manner, and still be fair to both teams and the public.

All the petty stuff that leads up to the big stuff takes place behind his back and when the flare-up does break out it becomes a regular donnybrook. Every player on every team in this fast, hard-battling group is carrying a chip on his shoulder the minute he hits the ice. The result of this is, that there is plenty of dirt going on that the ref. never sees and then all of a sudden the fire breaks out and the penalty box becomes overloaded and the customers become disgusted.

Under the old O.H.A. rules one referee could handle a game in easy fashion. The players were not all at one another's throats. The public got good hockey with just enough tobacco to provide a thrill. Under the present pro. code everything goes from trips to losing your undershirt. In the pro. ranks they use two referees on ice surfaces away larger than any rink in this district, and at that we have the best bunch of rinks in Ontario. On those large ice surfaces the players never have as much, or as close contact, as they do on the small sheet, yet the powers-that-be deemed it necessary to us the double referee system.

Now if it is necessary to use two referees on the big ice, why is it not a whole lot more necessary to have double refs. on little ice? I claim that it is. I do not think that there will be good hockey in this district again, free from plenty of penalties and fights, until the double referee system is used.

Expense does not enter into the question. The extra 10 case notes for the second referee is nothing, compared to an empty till in the box office, if the present brand of hockey is continued to be dished up. The public are about fed up on this penalty and fight stuff all over the district and a change has got to be made if the game is going to continue flourishing.

As to this question, Clayton Browne, Sports Editor of the St. Catharines Standard, says: "One hates to criticize officiating and be termed poor losers, but Babe Bogardis has been around enough to not let the players take the game out of his control. He was rather inconsistent, in letting "raw" infractions pass unnoticed, then sharply check on reprimands on the next play, when the injured-feeling puckster repaid the sly compliments. Fans fain (mostly free agents, at that) barracked the Fort Erie man continuously and rode his decisions pitilessly. Yet the Cats were far trickier and got away with it to a very great extent. The addition of Gord Peterkin and his own pit tactics led the Cats in collecting 12 of the 20 penalties. Bogardis could have given the home-sters 20 and then found time to be strict, if he wished."

M.R. PATRICK Lester Patrick, major-domo of the New York Rangers, is credited with being one of the shrewdest men connected with professional hockey, as the manner in which his team finishes each year shows. In his days as a player, he ranked with the best and in the role of manager he is about tops.

But there is one thing that Monsieur Lestaire cannot understand, and that is why American colleges do not contribute more players to the salaried ice sport. He points out that of all the men who have played for university sextets in the United States, George Owen, Harvard, was the only one to try for a place on an N.H.L. team and hold it.

"Look," he said, "they furnish us with the greatest of professional football players—plenty of big-league baseball talent—but they can't give us any big-time hockey prospects. No sir, they can't."

"You can take some big sophomore, fresh off the farm or out of the mines, and, if he weighs upwards of 200 pounds and can move one leg after another in a logical enough fashion to run, you're apt to have yourself a pretty good football player within six weeks—maybe even an all-American."

"You can learn to play football. It might take some guys two, three years to catch on to the signals, but at least they can learn the mechanical aspects of the thing almost to perfection."

"Same thing to a great extent in baseball. If a boy has some ability a good manager can bring it out of him. I guess you can apply that principle to anything but hockey."

"It's the old skating problem, time and time again. Give me a kid who skidded out on the pond at the age of four, or so, and skated four months of every year for ten seasons and I'll show you the makings of a real hockey player."

Any person who has followed the sport down through the years, well knows that Patrick was not merely chattering, for some of the great stars of the game got their start on the old mill pond with a "shiny" stick and an old tin can for a puck. But it so happens that mill ponds are getting rather scarce, for the grinding to-day is done mostly by steam or electric power.

But the idea of starting them young is the right one, so, mothers, and you, too, fathers, hearken to Mr. Patrick's advice if junior has ambitions to be a Clancy or a Shore.

That Grimsby is following closely along the lines of Patrick's theories is evidenced by the great flock of public school kids, midgets and juveniles that are being coached and developed by Public School Principal Ken Griffith, Rome Taylor, Ernie Mason and their coaches, Dyke Lawson and Les. Farrell.

There'll come a day, not so far distant, when the name Peach King, will again resound through the Halls of Hockey Fame, the same as in 1925-26, and all because the kids are getting the proper training.

BUILT FIRST A native of Clifford, says the Hanover Post, developed a business that provides an interesting story, and particularly to hockey fans. Lured by the call of G. A. Tackaberry went to Brandon, Man., and continued at his trade as a shoemaker. One day, back in 1903, Joe Hall, one of hockey's most colorful figures, walked into the shoe shop and ordered a special pair of hockey boots, made to order, starting an industry that now has an outlet in 40 different countries of the world. Hall found the ordinary store boots not of the right make for hockey players, and he was loud in his praise of the boots made for him by Geo. Tackaberry, telling other hockey players about them. The next player to order a pair was Lester Patrick, then a gangling youth from Montreal who went west to play hockey, and who later was to become the mogul behind the Pacific Coast League, later going to New York where he still manages the professional Rangers and is vice-president of the great Madison Square Gardens Corporation.

Another early customer of Mr. Tackaberry was Art Ross, then a great defence player and now manager of the Boston Bruins. "Tackaberry hockey boots" went on from strength to strength. In 1915 he went into business for himself, devoting his time largely to the manufacture of hockey boots. By 1920 he used to sell them in lots of 50 pair to leaders across Canada, instead of only to individual customers, and in 1927 a big Canadian sports firm took over the entire output of the Brandon shop, and now between 400 and 500 pair are annually made for the firm and sold to hockey players all over the world where the game is played. Mr. Tackaberry found that no leather could compare with kangaroo for hockey boots.

Sport Fans Have Big Night of Fun

Three Hockey And One Broom Ball Game Provide Plenty of Thrills For Large Crowd —A Lot of Sport For Little Money.

The biggest twenty-five cents worth of fun and real amusement that the people of this district have ever had, was dished up to them at the arena on Tuesday night.

First off the midget Independents had sweet revenge on the Red Wings team of Hamilton for the defeat that they suffered at their hands two weeks ago, when they succeeded in coming out on the long end of a 2-1 score. This game showed the fans that the kids are benefiting greatly from the coaching they are receiving and will give a mighty fine account of themselves when the F. & S. league gets under way next week.

The second item on the four way menu was the girls game and how the young lasses did go to it. They not only provided a lot of fun but they showed that they knew just what this game called hockey is all about. There are some mighty fast skaters among these girls and from the talent exhibited, it would not be surprising if a real honest-to-goodness girls team will be carrying the old Peach Queens colors before the season is over.

In the third act of the evening a lot of old grudges from last season were settled when Hamilton Regals defeated Ernie Mason's Peach Pits 1-0. There was a whole carload of fast, smart, heady hockey displayed in this game, but unfortunately it was marred by a real fist slinging fight. Pits showed the fans that they are a team that is going to take a whale of a lot of beating before the Ontario Juvenile Association silverware is handed out next spring.

The highlight of the night was the broomball, football, baseball, golf, checkers game between Geo. Kannmacher's Kandy Kewpies and Ollie Shaw's Sausage Slicers. The boys bounced one another around in all direction to the great delight of the crowd. Scotty MacKay was referee of this game and what he doesn't know about handling a game is not worth printing. The boys may have been stiff and sore when they crawled out of the hay on Wednesday morning, but they had a great night's fun just the same, and so did the spectators.

The management of both the Independents and the Peach Pits appreciate very much the generous response of the public for their attendance at the games and for their purchases of tickets. The funds realized on Tuesday night will go a long way toward financing the two teams of kids for the winter and it is certainly money well spent, for Grimsby today can be proud of these young boys, for with the training that they are getting a lot of natural ability is being brought out that some day will bring credit to this whole district.

THUMBNAILS of the PEACH KINGS

EDWARD HAND, better known as Teddy, was born on February 18th, 1911, and therefore will be 27 years old his next birthday. He comes by his hockey honestly, as back about the time he was born, his father was one of the best wingmen in the Fruit Belt. Stands 5 feet 10 inches, weighs 170 pounds. Is one of the fastest skaters in the country. Stick handles and shoots left handed. Always played left wing, but this winter is doing his stuff on defence also. Learned his hockey on the old pond at the lake. Graduated to the Junior Peach Buds and then to the intermediates. Played the season of 1935-36 with Teck-Hughes team of Kirkland Lake in the Gold Belt league. Then back to the Peach Kings. Is blonde, blue-eyed and single, but has hopes.

O.H.A. JUNIORS HAVE A GREAT RECORD

Ontario has produced the only teams ever to bring the Memorial Cup to Eastern Canada. Champions of the O.H.A. junior series have won the coveted trophy, emblematic of Dominion junior supremacy, nine times in the nineteen east-west finals played since the Memorial Cup was first played for in 1919.

TUESDAY NIGHT There's always one big night in the week in every town, sportigraphically speaking, and Tuesday Night is Hockey Night in Grimsby, beginning on Tuesday night next, January 4th. That is the night that the F. & S. Midget and Juvenile league gets into action. Independents and Peach Pits are two sweet teams in their respective divisions and I'm gambling a red herring against one of Tom Warner's many suits of clothes, that before the season is over they will be drawing real crowds. Don't take my says for the brand of hockey these kids produce, but be at Geo. Marr's polar pic plant next Tuesday night and see for yourself. First game at 7 o'clock. Second game at 8 o'clock. 120 minutes of smashing hockey. Come.

DOWN THE SLOPE IN HAWK-LIKE FORM

Wintery blasts are sweeping over Canada and King Winter is dusting the sking-slopes of the sport centres with what it takes to provide ideal conditions for skiers. This odd-angle snap shows an early bird scooting down a slope at Badger, Calif., where the snow often reaches a depth of ten feet.

THOROLD MOUNTIES TAKE GROUP LEAD BY 7-4 WIN

In the biggest scoring game on local ice this season, Thorold Mounties went into the lead in the local group, when they defeated the Peach Kings 7-4.

Kings ended the first period with a two to one lead on the Mounties, on goals by Best and Earl Tufford, but this lead soon vanished in the second period when a minute and 15 seconds after play commenced St. Louis notched a counter and the Mounties set to work in earnest and scored three more, leaving them at the end of the session holding a commanding lead by 5-2.

In the third frame Russ Tufford and Best each made the red light blink, but Russ and Turner did the same thing for the Mounties and the game ended 7-4.

This win leaves the Mounties alone at the top of the group and on their showing last night, it is going to be a tough job to topple them off the top.

PEACH KINGS AND MACS SHOW SPIRIT OF BROTHERLY LOVE

Only One Penalty in Listless Game That Locals Win 2-1

Tufford Boys Bounce One Another Around — Lawson And Best Point Getters.

(By "Dandy" Darby in the St. Catharines Standard)

Santa Claus paid an early visit to the Grimsby arena Thursday night and during his short stay left a sackful of power in the Peach Kings dressing room. He left a sample of the same in the hideout occupied by McKinnon's but barely enough to prevent the Kings from taking the long end of a 2-1 count in their scheduled fixture. To say the least both teams needed that power and until the last period not a mite of it was in evidence.

A very definite brand of pond-shiny marked the opening duo, but going into the final session down by one goal the Peach Kings forced the pace to an amazing degree, dragged the motormen behind them and wound up the game in a blaze of glory. The victory was well earned, a point conceded by almost every fan present, and may be the turning point for the Peach Kings on an upward surge while the GM's took the loss right on the chin for their second straight falter.

Another pleasing feature of the game was the way in which Referee "Dinty" Moore handled the whistle. From the drop of the puck both teams knew a real referee was in charge of the game and tended strictly to their knitting. Only one penalty marked the time-keeper's blotter, that going to Grimsby for a high stick in the middle session. It was a pleasure to watch a clean game for a change and seemed particularly strange for both teams are well known for their ability to cut loose every now and then.

The motormen swung into an early lead that lasted until well into the final session when Dorman took Earl Tufford well out in the clear with the ten minute mark of the opener to coast gracefully into the clear for a perfect fake on Robertson, who was given no chance.

The tally came after the home-towners had missed more than one sure goal only to lose out at the last moment. One play found Earl Tufford well out in the clear with only the netminder to beat when his skate dug into the ice to trip him.

The middle session found more interest in the "feud" between "Monk" and Earl Tufford, the former wearing the blue and white of the motormen and the latter the Peach King jersey. The brothers found plenty of time to jostle each other and lost no opportunity to do so. "Monk", a hefty defenceman, was shaken more than once by the lighter Earl and on one occasion was flattened squarely on his back while his brother stood over him and laughed. The mixing had good effect on the local fans for "Monk" was as high as a Peach King rear-gardener last year.

The only penalty of the game banished Lamour for a two-minute stretch for high sticking "Spud" Inglis and during his absence the motormen turned in a spotty rushing campaign. Time after time the blue horde swept down

I QUIT

Never again, so help me — Hannah, will I ever accuse a Scotchman of being tight — I mean financially — for I learned a great big lesson over the Christmastide. Scottie MacKay, the big pick and shovel man of the Dominion Construction Co. may be Scotch by birth, but that's as far as it goes. If Scottie got away for less than 100 smackers in yuletide gifts to the kids and the needy of Grimsby, then I miss my guess. The sporting fraternity, always generous to the 'ninth degree, have a worthy member in Scottie.

the ice only to have a crimson jerseyed King snatch the puck and wham it down the ice. GM's played every man up but their scoring chances were very few.

A seemingly rejuvenated Peach King team skated onto the ice for the final period and before the session was more than a minute old action leapt to the fore. The Macs lost a sure goal when Bob Pinder's shot failed to trickle over the line with Robertson out of high net. The puck trembled on the line for a split second with Pinder, vainly trying to rap it home while the red shirts swarmed around the cage.

Grimsby ran smack back into the running after five minutes of the period had elapsed when Lawson took a beautiful pass from Earl Tufford to skate unopposed. A hard drive crossed Coupland and picked the far side of the net to knot the count at 1-1. A minute and a half later Grimsby's supporters really outdid the spirit of the season with a howl of pleasure when Martin "Fat" Best took a rink-wide pass from Saunders at the blue line to march on in a clear field. Coupland was given no chance with Best literally on top of the net. It was a well deserved goal that climaxed an amazing comeback for the Kings and incidentally put the game on ice.

The Macs dropped five men with minutes to go in a frenzied attempt to tie the score but the Kings were onto every pass like hawks and time again cleared the puck from danger.

By Mabel B. Holmes

SAM LINCOLN walked slowly along the street gazing into store windows. An icy wind caught him at the corners, but he hurried across to the next curb intent on his mental shopping.

He was thinking hard of Cora, too. Though not a word had been spoken between them on the subject, it was quite understood that he should buy her warm gloves, a warm sweater and stockings for Christmas. He'd saved a fair amount for this very purpose. When you gave up your city living for the country, you thought in terms of wool. Cora needed all these things. Her gloves were worn down to thin spots. Her sweater had been mended a good many times and her stockings — well, Cora just laughed about them. Cora would. She had made fun of every hard thing about changing their home, from the dreadful wheezy pump in the kitchen, to the way the floors slanted in the bedrooms, so that no pencil would stay on a table, and books continually slid off on the floor. Cora was a thoroughbred and a good sport.

Sam looked at a green sweater. That would be becoming to Cora's light curles. Or that cheerful red one. Nice on snowy winter mornings. The very chickadees would sing with pleasure at sight of her in that sweater. He took a few steps toward the shop door when his eye fell on a black-and-yellow silk kimono.

Of course he would not get it; just inquire the price so that he might look at it.

The moment Sam touched a reverent hand to the exquisite silk he was lost. Thrifty, hard-working Sam! How could he have done such a thing? And so calmly, too. "Please wrap it up," he had said. The price had been reduced in order to sell quickly. He walked out of the shop with the light bundle filled with warm woolen things the kind Cora so sorely craved.

All the way home on the train his heart sank lower and lower. He felt so chilled and miserable at the thought of his weak behavior, that Cora rushed at him as he opened the door, exclaiming, "My dear, what dreadful thing has happened to you?"

They had an excellent if frugal dinner. Cora chatted happily of this and that, looking unusually pretty and gay. Sam tried to meet her laughter, but actually shivered along his spine. Idiot! Fool! Wretched unspeakable lunatic that he was! Would a yellow-and-black Chinese kimono keep Cora warm? It would not.

Justice demanded that he confess. Cora would be kind, and that would hurt more than anything. Cora would be kind and keep right on feeling cold on the crisp mornings after Christmas. But he must do it . . . muddle through it somehow.

After dinner he came close to Cora muttering something about a gift, and how darned sorry he was . . . and please, please not to look at him so sweetly.

Cora unwrapped the bundle. Sam waited. The lovely shining thing

Mark 10:44 — "And whosoever would be first among you, shall be servant of all."

"The Gospel of Mark—a Preview"

PREVIEW ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Jan. 2 is Mark 10:35-45, the Golden Text being Mark 10:44. "And whosoever would be first among you, shall be servant of all." This lesson is introductory to a six months' course in the Gospel according to Mark. Preparatory to this course we quote the "preview" of Mark given in the author's own Bible Study book, "The Gist of the Bible Book by Book", published by Dr. Alvin E. Bell, Toledo, Ohio.)

JOHN MARK was the young companion and servant of the Apostle Peter who wrote the story of Jesus after that apostle's death as he had often heard it from Peter's lips. His is the earliest of the four accounts of the gospel.

Gospel for the Romans

Mark wrote in Rome and for the Romans, as is evidenced by his frequent use of Latin terms in explanation of Jewish words and customs. (Matthew wrote for the Jews to show them Jesus as King of the Jews; Luke wrote for the Greeks to show them Jesus as the Son of Man; John wrote for all to show Jesus Son of God.) Mark does not often refer to the Old Testament prophecies, as Matthew does, for the Romans knew little of these prophecies and cared less. For the same reason he gives no genealogy of Jesus as Matthew and Luke do for these to whom feel to the floor with the lights gleaming on it.

"Oh . . . oh . . . I never in all my life saw anything so magnificent! For me? Surely, surely not for me, Sam? But how I'd adore it! I'm sure I wouldn't mind anything if I knew such a gorgeous garment were hanging in my closet. But of course you're teasing me . . ."

"No," said Sam heavily. "It's your Christmas present. I feel like a cad. I know you need the warm things, don't be so darned sweet about it!" he commanded crossly.

Corra flung on the robe, and threw her arms around Sam's neck. "I don't know why you're acting this silly way . . . but if you're so dead set on warm things . . . a whole box came this afternoon from Uncle Horace."

Sam sank weakly into a chair. "You're so lovely I want to kiss you very hard."

"Why not?" inquired Cora, resplendent in the yellow-and-black kimono. "This is simply the most wonderful thing you ever did for me."

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Mark 10:35-45.

John Mark, nephew of Barnabas, accompanied Paul on his first missionary journey, but deserted them. Paul refused to allow him to go on his next journey. Mary, the mother of John Mark, often opened her home to the Apostle Peter. From Peter Mark learned the story of Jesus' life, when he later wrote in the Gospel according to Mark.

Mark pictures Jesus as servant of Jeovah. "Whosoever of you will be chiefest shall be servant of all. For even the Son of Man came to minister and give his life a ransom for many."

In early Christian art Mark was repre-

Trinity United Church

New Year's messages and music will feature the services in Trinity Church next Sunday. At the morning service the theme will be "First Things First".

A junior congregation is being started this Sunday to which all children up to the age of eight years are invited.

At the evening service the minister will preach on the subject "The Forward Look". All who do not worship elsewhere are invited to join with us in these New Year services.

Baptist Church

Rev. Dr. Lockie will occupy the pulpit in the Baptist Church on Sunday, January 2nd.

St. John's Presbyterian Church

Sunday, Jan. 2nd — The special feature for this Sunday will be the Candlelight Service. Using candles and lighting effects we purpose making this one of the most impressive services you have ever attended. You are urged to attend the service Sunday night. In the morning the minister, Rev. L. B. Kaine, will speak on the subject, "Fearless of the Future."

SERVICE CLUB MEETING NEXT TUESDAY NIGHT

The Men's Service Club of St. Andrew's Church will hold its next monthly meeting in the Parish Hall, on Tuesday evening, January 4th, at eight o'clock.

The speaker for the occasion will be the Reverend W. A. Henderson, of Hamilton, and his topic, "The Guelph Reformatory". Entertainment will be provided by more of their Beamsville friends, Charlie Moore, contributing a song, and Jack Jenkins putting on a comedy act, aided by such others of them as time will permit. Refreshments will conclude the evening.

OLD TESTAMENT GIANTS STAND IN JASPER PARK

they wrote. To the Romans the great things of life were action, service, efficiency, a d Mark seizes this as his opportunity to picture Jesus Christ to them appealingly as the mighty wonder working servant of God.

Mark's key expressions are "straightway" or "immediately", which, with kindred expressions occur 42 times in his story. His key-note is sounded in 10:35-45 in the words, "Whosoever of you will be the chiefest, shall be servant of all. For even the Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many."

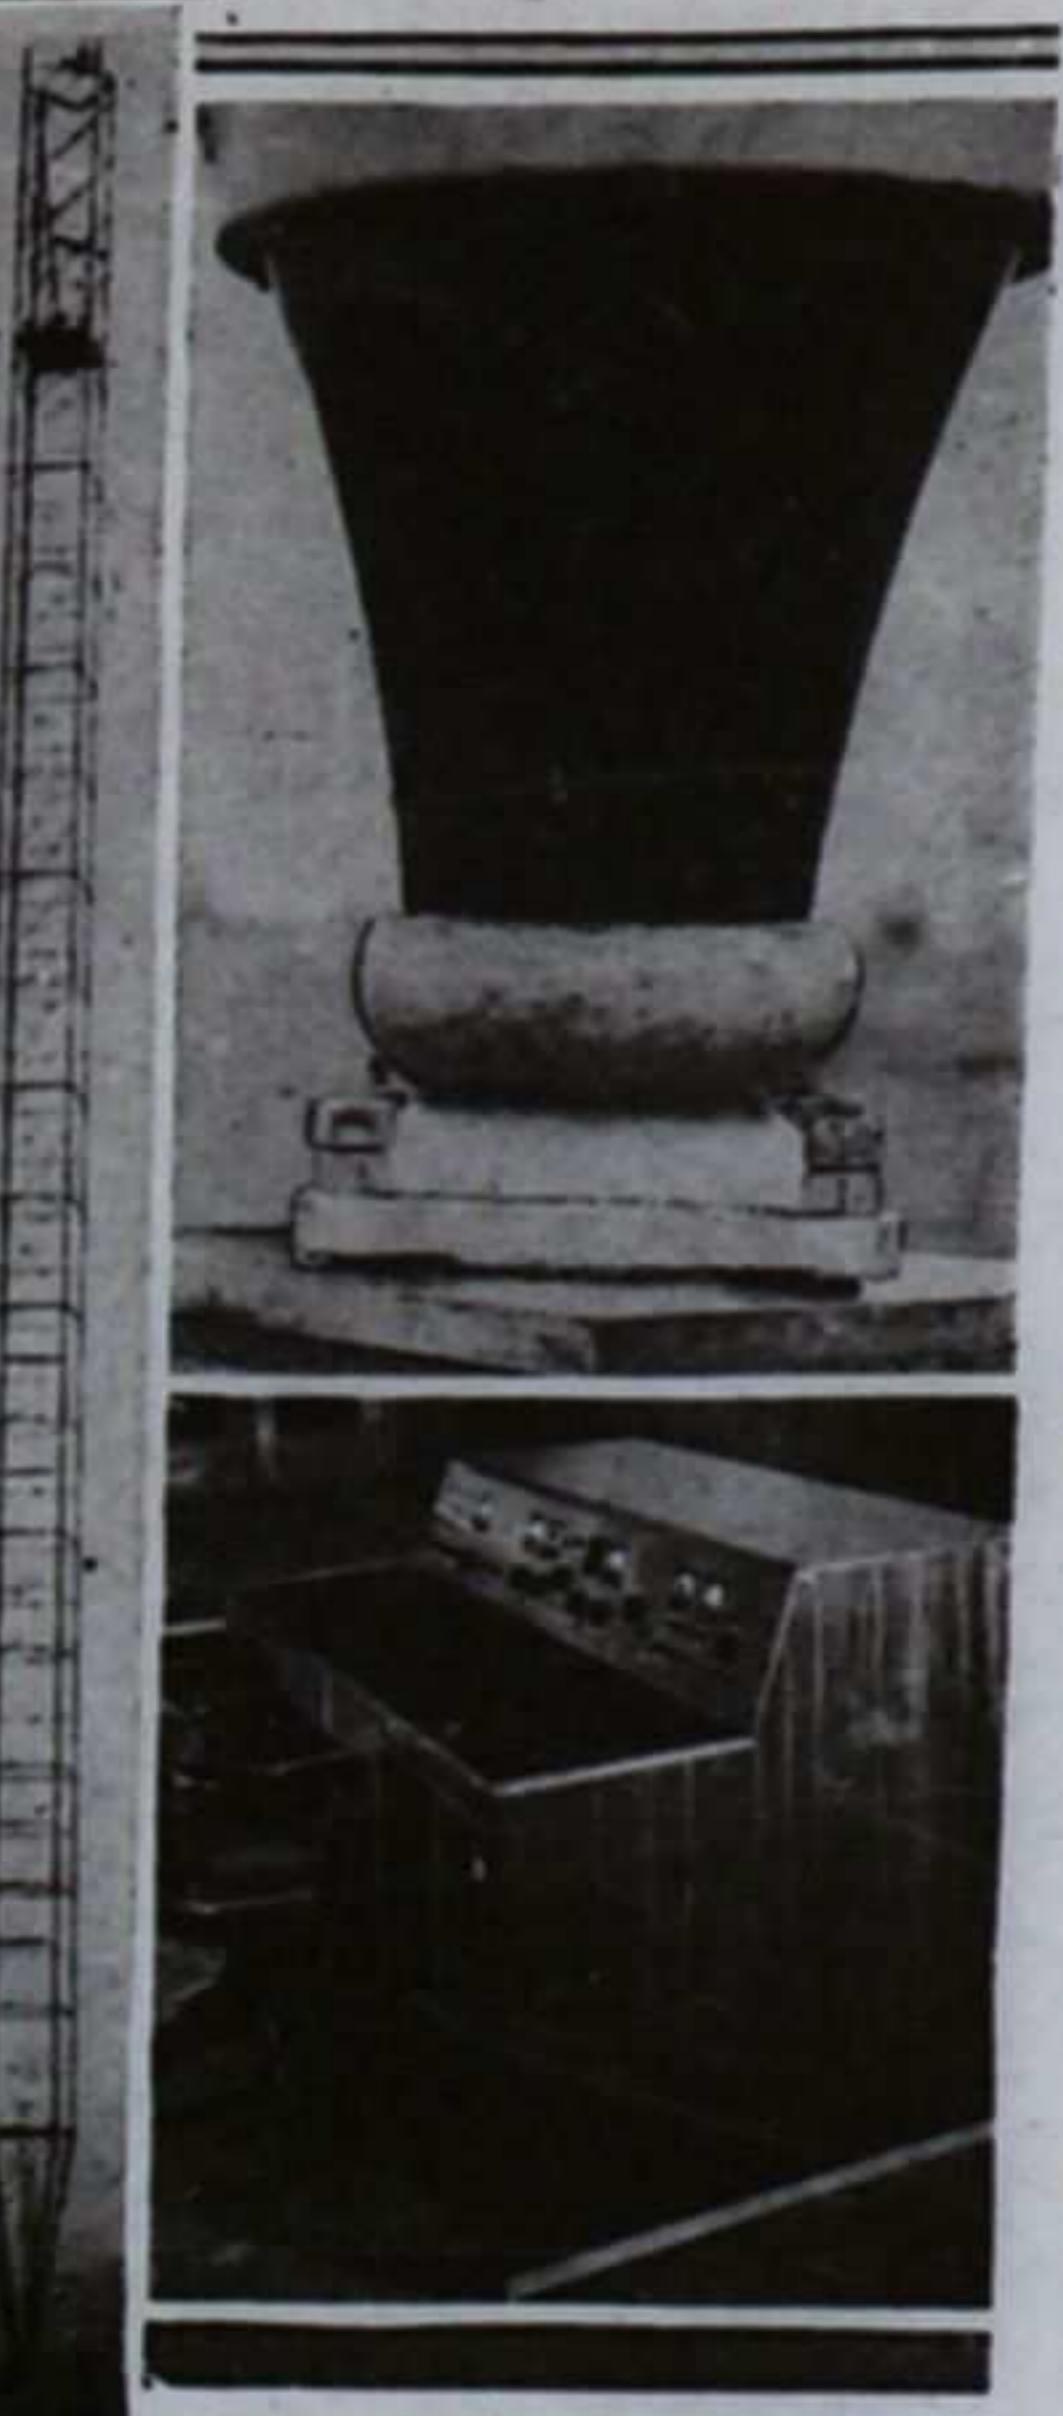

As befits the story of a servant, Mark is characteristically a gospel of deeds rather than of discourses. He has room for 20 miracles and references to many more, but he finds room for only four parables. Jesus and his disciples are constantly at work. If he seeks rest from the work by retirement to the desert his purpose is defeated by throns for whom he works a miracle; or if his rest comes in sleep during the storm at sea it is disturbed by his disciples to perform for them the mighty work of stilling the tempest. Thus disease, demons, darkness of the soul and depths of the sea are wrought upon by this ministering servant of God, to the good of men and the glory of God. If you want to find in a nutshell the "Petrine gospel" of works, as Mark is called, you can read it in Peter's own words in Acts 10:36-43.

Mark even removes the offense of the cross from the Roman mind by showing it as the culmination of all his service for humanity, and reminding them that the Roman centurion in charge of the crucifixion went away from the cross saying, "Truly this man was the Son of God."

Little wonder then that the early Christians used the ox as the symbol to represent Mark's gospel in the art of the early church, for the ox represented both service and sacrifice, as the lion represented the kingship of Jesus as set forth by Matthew, and as the man symbolized the humanity of Jesus as set forth by Luke, and the eagle symbolized the deity of Christ as set forth by John.

With Mark the working of Jesus did not cease even with his resurrection and ascension, for after he was "received up into heaven, and sat on the right hand of God, and his disciples went forth and preached everywhere, the Lord worked with them, confirming the word with signs following."

New CBC Station Opened Christmas Day

On Christmas Day the powerful new radio transmitting unit of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, station CBI, at Hornby, Ont., was officially opened, with Hon. C. D. Howe as chief speaker and a Christmas program featuring King George's goodwill message from Sandringham. Pictures from the 50,000-watt transmitting station are shown here with Chief Engineer Nichols at (LEFT) testing the control equipment with an assistant. The huge tower carrying the aerial, stretching 647 ft. into the sky, is shown in (CENTRE), and (top RIGHT) pictures the almost unbelievably small base on which the 70 tons of steel comprising the tower rest. The insulated base carrying the massive needle is only about 10 inches across. At (lower RIGHT) the operating console through which the engineer in charge can fully control operation of the station is shown; the control units are duplicated in the sister station now under construction at Vercheres, Que.

THE GAME OF TRAFFIC

Out in the street and every day, There's a game of Traffic you learn to play. And you have to be clever and keen and fair. Or you'll never learn to be winner there.

The trucks and the cars and the street-cars make The 'enemy' side that you have to take. And the prize is Life and the prize is sweet.

But you've got to be smart with your head and feet!

Don't leave the curb with a car in sight. Unless by the signals you've got the right,

And 'daring' a car in a city street Just labels you "silly" and "fool" and "cheat".

If your ball goes bouncing before a car, Don't follow it out where the dangers are,

You can get it again when the way is clear But your chance is poor with a fast car near.

If you keep the rules and are fair and kind, There's nothing in Traffic you need to mind.

And even the enemy side will say, "He's a little guy, but he sure can play!"

TRAIN TRAVELS 1,000 TIMES 'ROUND EARTH

In the 37 years The International Limited has been operating between Montreal, Toronto and Chicago, it has traversed more than 1,000 times the distance around the earth at the equator and has carried approximately 3,000,000 passengers, according to an official of the Canadian National Railways.

The International Limited, began service on June 24, 1900. At that time, it covered the distance between Montreal and Chicago in 23 hours and took seven hours and 25 minutes to reach Toronto. A few years before, Toronto was 12 hours distant from Montreal. Following substantial improvements to the roadbed, track and rolling stock, including the provision of faster locomotives, when the Grand Trunk was merged with the Canadian National Railways, the schedule was cut to six hours between Montreal and Toronto and 18 hours and 15 minutes between Montreal and Chicago.

GRASSIE

A delightful time was spent last Wednesday evening, when the pupils of the Grassie school held their annual Christmas concert, under the supervision of the teacher, Miss Dorothy Comfort. The programme consisted of dialogues, recitations, choruses and monologues. A short play entitled "Uncle Joe's Minstrels" was put on by the young people of the neighborhood. Musical numbers were also appreciated from Miss Helen Delonaiski, Oscar Hysert and Harry Milmine, also Misses Verna Johnson, and Violet Skews. Secretary, James Stewart, acted as chairman.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Black and son Stanley, spent Christmas day with the former's parents at Guelph.

Wedding Bells rang last Wednesday for Mrs. Marilena Southward and Mr. Chas. Book. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. L. Small at Smithville. We extend our congratulations.

Christmas was an anxious day for Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hopkins. Their son Marvin and his wife, also their daughter, Mrs. Geo. Dow, husband and baby daughter, met with an accident, when their car skidded into the rear of a bus, near Bartonville. They were loaded with gifts, turkeys and everything for a merry Christmas dinner with their parents, but fate decided differently.

Marvin Hopkins, who was the most seriously injured, was rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital. The rest of the party suffered shock and minor injuries.

Gospel Services will be held in the Grassie Hall next Sunday evening at 7:30. Also meetings all next week at 8 o'clock. Everybody welcome.

"Forget it," growled the diner. "I've got a headache, fallen arches, corns, a bunion, three warts, and an empty stomach. Tell your troubles to someone else, and bring me some ham and eggs."

GRIMSBY CENTRE

The Christmas concert was held at the school Tuesday, December 21st, and it was voted by many to have been the best concert this school has given for many years. Although music and singing has only been taught for one year, the performance of the scholars shows how well they have responded to their teacher's effort. It was hard to choose any one item but the chorus singing under the able baton of Miss Gliddon (their teacher) was good and shows that with a little more training this choir is capable of, and will give, a good account of itself in next summer's Lincoln County festival. The mechanical dance of the little girls was enjoyed, also the cowboy songs of the little Haws brothers which called for a well merited encore. The wedding of Jack and Jill caused amusement, the bride and groom which were only six years of age, causing much merriment.

The chair was filled by Mr. Goodman Pettigrew, as only he can fill it, that is with genealogy and good humor plus. Mr. Eaton gave two of his humorous recitations which were greatly appreciated and Mr. F. Zoellner was the beloved Santa Claus.

Credit must be given to Mrs. Gliddon who was responsible for most of the costumes worn by the children and to Mr. Eaton (their music master) and last but not least to their teacher, Miss Gliddon. Thanks may also be extended to the school trustees for the many improvements made in this school in recent years. They are all young and prosperous farmers and show what modern youth can do when given a chance.

Congratulations are extended to the esteemed secretary of school trustees, (who has held this post nearly 40 years), in his recent marriage. May he live to enjoy many years of health and happiness.

Mr. M. Blanchard is now enjoying the benefits of hydro.

The Christmas season in this district was quietly observed, many either spending it in their own homes or that of their family.

Growers To Meet At Toronto Jan. 11

Possible Changes in "Dump" Duties to be Discussed — Hon. P. M. Dewan to Speak.

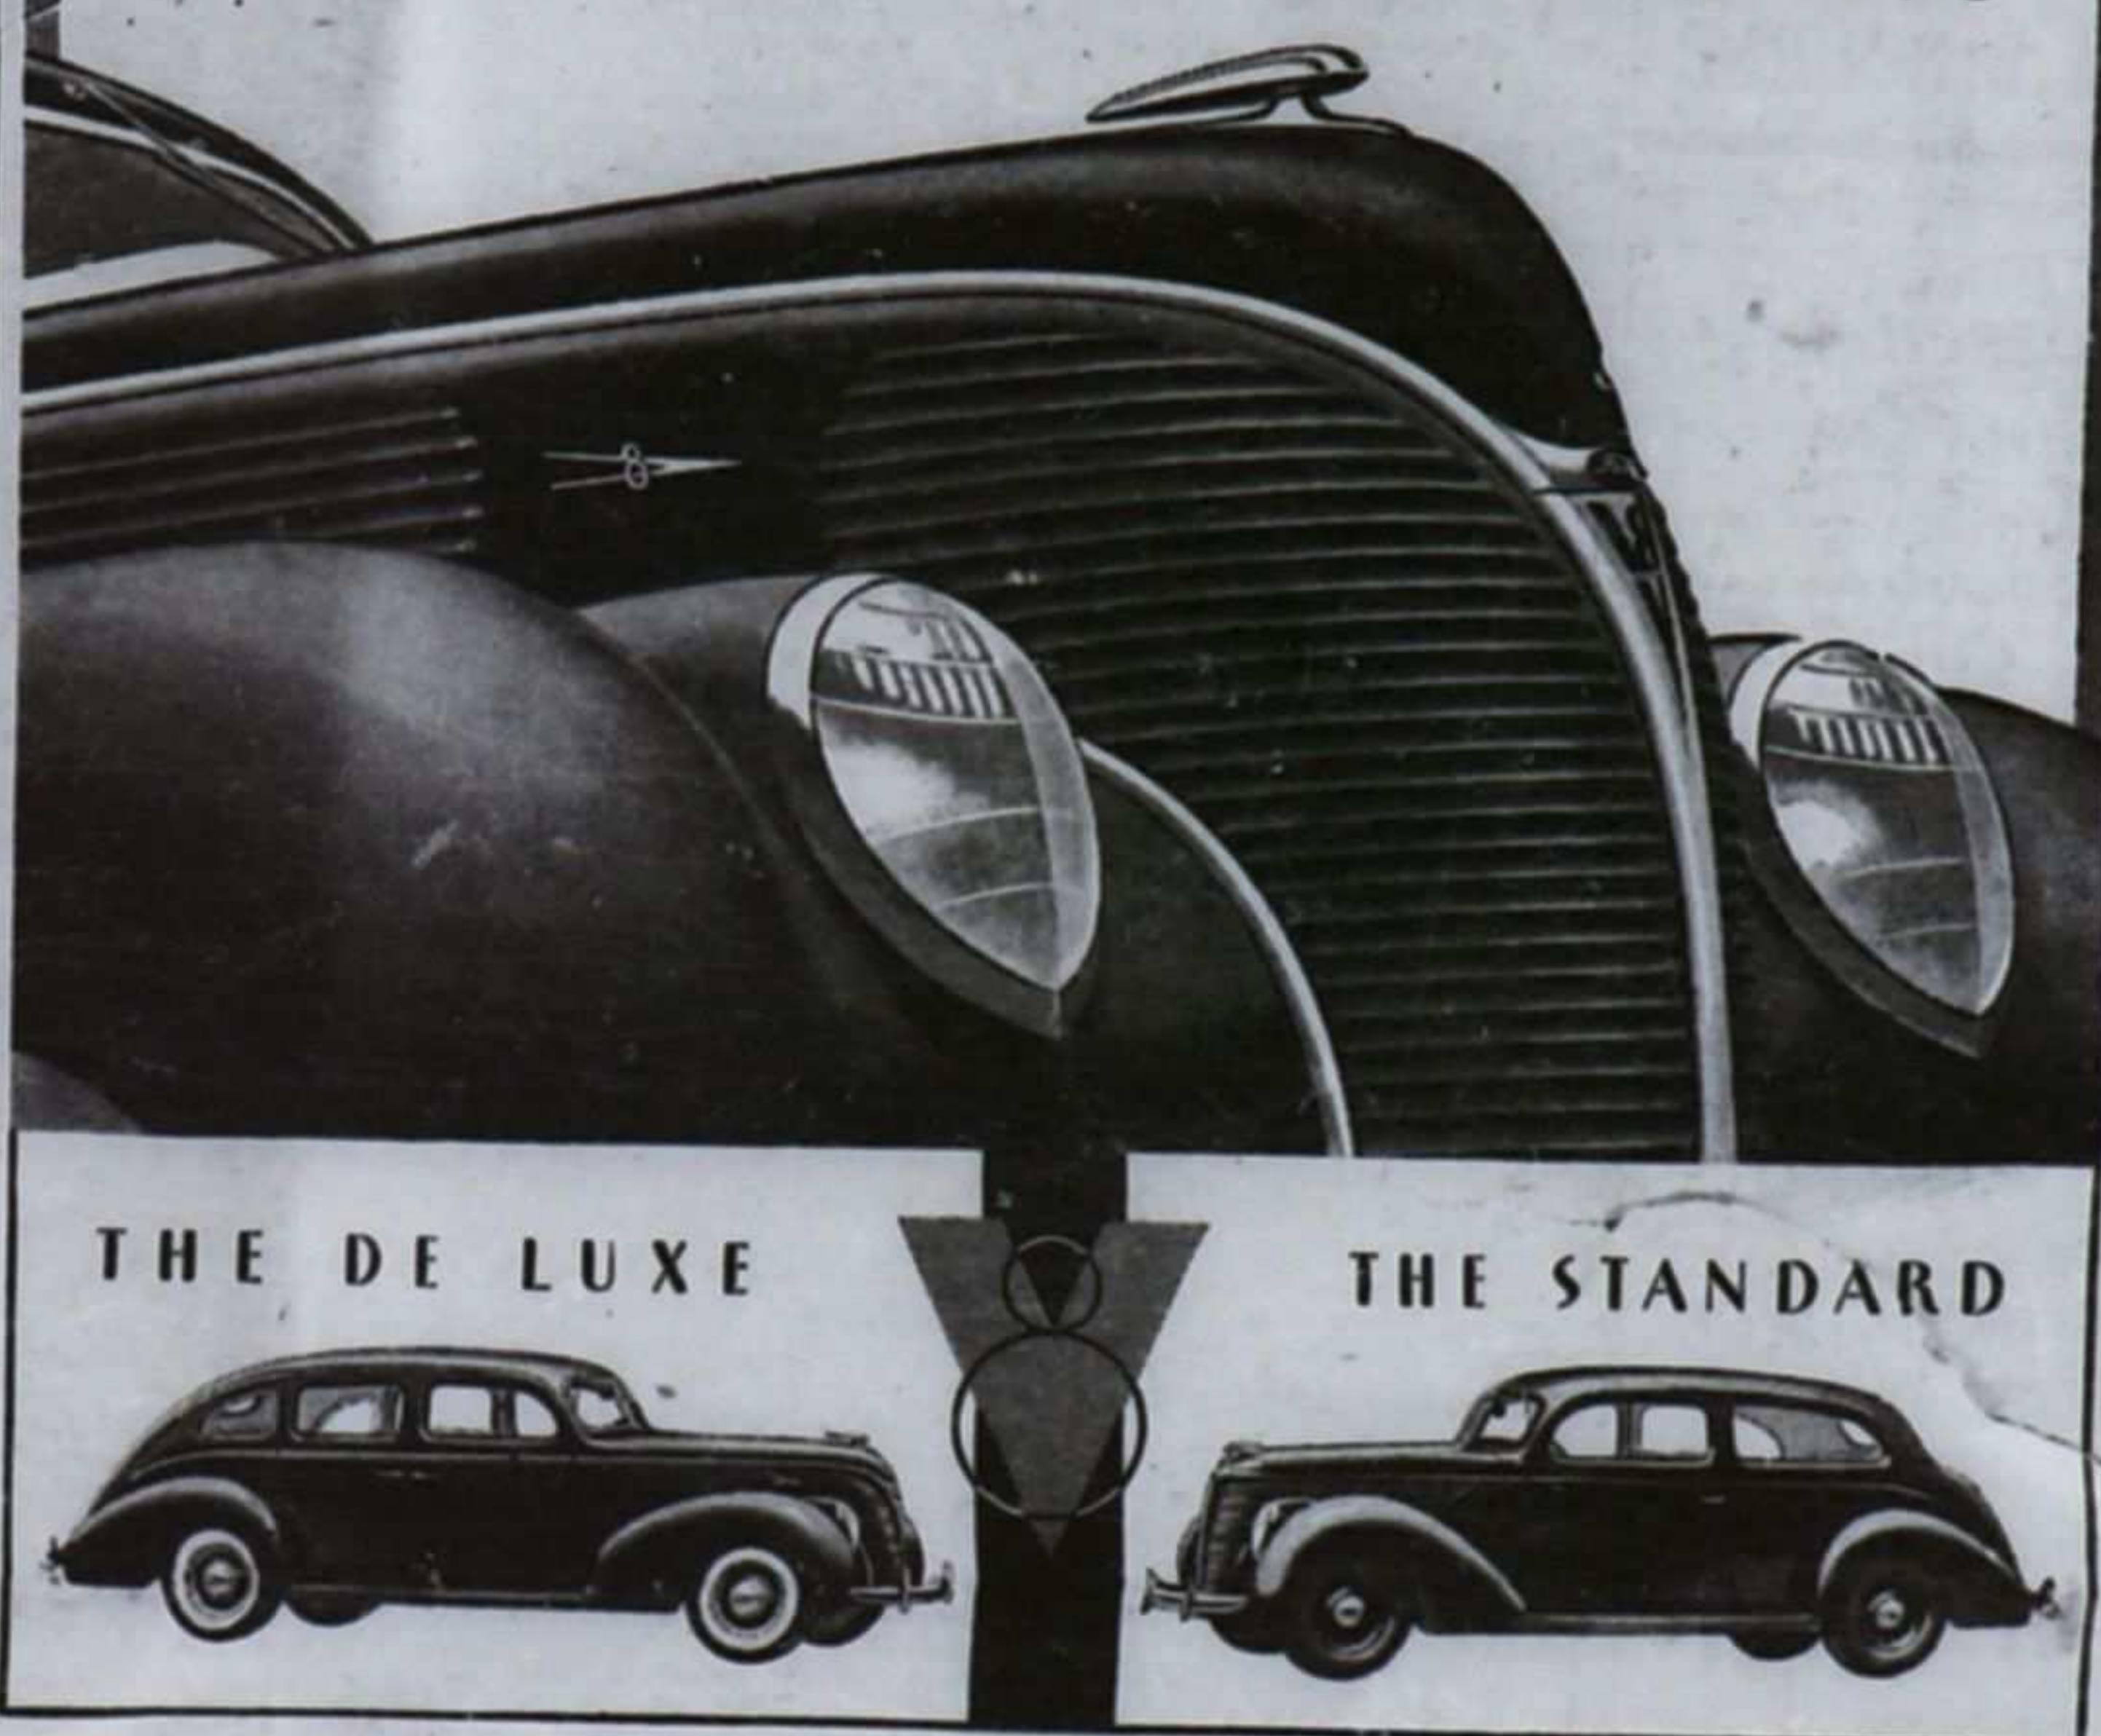

The proposed trade treaties between Canada, Great Britain and the United States which vegetable and fruit growers of Ontario are afraid will include clauses that will deal vital blows at their industries, will come in for major discussion at the annual convention of the Ontario Vegetable Growers to be held in the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, January 11th at 9:30 a.m. Hon. P. M. Dewan, Ontario Minister of Agriculture will address the annual banquet of the vegetable men in the King Edward at 6:30 p.m. that evening. The annual meeting of the Ontario Vegetable Growers will be held the following day. Other speakers at the convention will include Lea. Burrows of the Canadian Horticultural Council and Dr. W. C. Hopper of the Economics branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, and Col. R. Wheeler, Federal Fruit Commissioner, Ottawa. Paul Fisher, prominent Burlington fruit grower, will make proposals for a definite solution of the Toronto terminal market problem. There will be an opportunity given for any other proposals along this line and it is expected that the Toronto Jobbers Assn. and others interested will also place terminal schemes before the meeting.

TOWNSHIP COUNCIL

(Continued from page 1) cil to have the full auditors' report printed. Clerk Allan stated that what had been printed in the press was what the auditor himself had picked out of the report. To have printed the whole report would have cost the township in the neighborhood of $500. Mr. Phillips then contended that auditors' opinions were not always right.

At this point Rev. Neil Leckie asked Mr. Phillips, "Tell us why you want to be elected?" Kindly tell us in plain, clear English why we should vote for you. Have these councillors been doing wrong? What wrong have they done? Tell us how you are better than the men now in office." Mr. Phillips pointed out that the township still owed 1937 county rate. "They have used up nearly all the money you men paid for taxes," he said. He emphasized that some 200 had signed petition for provincial audit and said the government men had stated these men who asked for audit deserved credit. The fact of being a year behind in paying county rate meant that some $2,400 in interest charges was added each year, he pointed out.

Councillor William Mitchell stated to Mr. Phillips: "You went out and misled 199 out of the 200 to get them to sign the petition." Mr. Phillips took strong exception to this statement. His last statement was: "I would like to know if this council is now ready to print the auditors' report and let the people judge for themselves. I was refused the right to look at the township books, which is strictly against the Municipal act."
